

NEW TRUSTEE JOINS AET

Dr John Lloyd joins AET Board of Trustees

The Alcohol Education Trust is delighted to announce that Dr John Lloyd has joined our Board of Trustees. John is a policy consultant in Public Health Education and has most recently acted as the Policy Adviser for the PSHE Association. Formerly an Adviser for PSHE and Citizenship Education at the DCSF prior to which he was a senior adviser with Birmingham Advisory and Support Service. John was a member of the PSHE Advisory Group and Citizenship Working Party contributing to the development of both the PSHE Framework and statutory Citizenship curriculum in England.

He is Co-author of Democracy Then and Now, Blueprints Health Education and co-editor of the Health Promoting Primary School along with other books and articles, he was Adviser to Channel 4 Schools All About Us Television series No Bullying Here and Karl's Story winning the Royal Television Society Gold Award.

John contributed to the QCA Citizenship Schemes of work, the SRE, Healthy Lifestyles and Financial Capability Units and the revised Citizenship and PSHE programmes of study in 2007. He chaired the Personal Development Reference Group at the QCA.

John is also a member of Rospa's National Risk and Safety Education Committee, and the British Library's Campaign, Make an Impact Advisory Board, a Board member of the Institute for Health Promotion and Education and Trustee of the University of the First Age. John has worked internationally on citizenship and PSHE and has represented the government on Education for Humanitarian Law Education, Citizenship and Health.

John has already been liaising with AET giving us advice on our resources and guidance with the evaluation project with NFER so we are thrilled to have him as a trustee. His wealth of knowledge and experience within the PSHE sector will enable us to continue providing schools with appropriate, suitable and informative resources on alcohol education.

'Grow your Tenner' campaign set to make a difference

LocalGiving.com match fundraising campaign was launched on the 25 September and generous donors have already helped raise nearly £800 for the Alcohol Education Trust.

Our resources are free to schools and for us to continue to do this we need financial support – please help us to continue to support schools with alcohol education resources.

Only £10 needs to be donated and the 'Grow your Tenner' campaign doubles it!
